Film: "BROKEN RAINBOW" (70 minutes, Maria Florio and Victoria Mudd)

● Best Documentary Feature 1985 - with a 2006 update ●

BROKEN RAINBOW presents a moving account of the forced relocation of 12,000 Navajo Indians that is currently taking place in Northern Arizona. Beautifully photographed and scored, Broken Rainbow captures the majesty of sacred Indian lands, and the devastating effect that mining, forced relocation and stock reduction has had on the land and its people.
